Business and Cottage Directory

Season 1930

Copyright 1930. Helen Anderson [of what would today be called the visitors bureau], Arthur B. Harris [editor of the Estes Park Trail newspaper]

[Notes: (1) After allowing EPHRP to digitize this copy of the Estes Park 1930 Business and Cottage Directory, Dr. Randall Maharry donated it to the Estes Park Public Library in January 2009. He originally purchased it from Jack Melton. (2) It is clear that at least four pages of the directory, and possibly eight, were removed at some time in the past (or accidentally omitted at the time of publication), because the list of names beginning with C and D is too small for the overall number of names included, with an obvious gap between “Camp” and “Denton”, the last name appearing in the C section and the first name appearing in the D section, respectively. As well, there are cross-references to names or categories that should be in these sections (like “see Clatworthy” or “see Cottages”) that cannot be found. (3) Because the Estes Park post office is used as the reference point for most downtown locations, it should be remembered that the post office in 1930 was in what is now called Bond Park. (4) Although they do not appear with a hash mark (#) in the directory, all telephone numbers are prefixed with this symbol to increase search efficiency. (5) This directory was digitized, corrected, and all annotations added in December 2008. Annotations in square brackets provided by John Meissner, annotations in “greater than-less than” brackets provided by Sybil Barnes. Parenthetical comments bracketed by curved parentheses are part of the original document.]

YOU SHOULD REGISTER

All cottage owners who spend all or a portion of the summers in Estes Park, and those who regularly vacation at a certain hotel or a leased cottage, are urged to register at the office of the Estes Park Trail. Special cards for this purpose are provided. This service is planned to assist in locating you in case of emergency, and for the benefit of your friends who wish to locate you. There is no charge of any kind attached to this service.

The name of the party appears first in each listing, then the name of their cottage, if it is named, then the initials of the road on or near which the cottage is located and the distance from the post office, and last the telephone number, if they have one.

Map Legend and Key [on the back of the folded-over, stapled-in, approximately 8-1/2 by 10 inch schematic map of downtown Estes Park placed near the middle of the directory. The footprints of various downtown buildings, likely advertisers, are included on this street map as oriented rectangles, numbered from 1 to 38, with the designations given in a lower left-hand corner key. Public or government institutions are directly labeled, and the locations of the Presbyterian church and Catholic church are indicated using simple church-shaped icons with cross-topped spires. Downtown streets, the Fall River, and the Big Thompson River and also included and directly labeled.]

This legend is also used for the map on the last page [the tipped-in, approximately 19 inch by 19 inch map of the Estes Park area, including much of Rocky Mountain National Park, Glen Haven, and Drake, marked with numerous geographic features and the locations of many of the prominent and not so prominent lodging establishments, plus two liveryes]
